Danielle Turcola -- Bio

Our Speaker Shares the Secret to the Ultimate Makeover!

Danielle Turcola is one of the top business coaches in America specializing in presence development, influence and global protocol. Corporations hire her to help executives and emerging leaders project a business presence that is credible, memorable, and influential in every business situation whether here or abroad. She's direct, yet diplomatic and knows instinctively what's needed to give each client that immeasurable edge of confidence and credibility. Her transformations result in higher salaries, greater personal impact and increased influence.

She is an international conference speaker and an active member of the National Speakers Association as well as a Past President of their Ohio Chapter. Danielle has been featured in numerous publications including the Wall Street Journal, interviewed on TV, and was a judge for the Miss Ohio Pageant. She developed the Color Confidence Card to help men and women look memorable, approachable, rested and younger by wearing their best colors.

Danielle has a B.A. degree in Spanish and has started five companies including the consulting firm Professionalism International Incorporated. Her World-class clients include: McDonald's, Dow Chemical, Deloitte, FedEx, Case Western Reserve University's Weatherhead School of Business Management and School of Law, General Electric, and The Golf Digest Companies.

She loves traveling and most enjoys spending time with her family in New Jersey and New York. She lives in Arizona with her Maltese, Sugar.

Please welcome the expert who will give us the secrets to the Ultimate Makeover--Danielle Turcola.
